The Ghanaian Pentecostal Revival of the 1970s and 1980s was a period of spiritual renewal and growth in the country. It was a time of great spiritual awakening and renewal, as the people of Ghana embraced the power of the Holy Spirit and the message of the Gospel. The revival was marked by a renewed focus on the power of prayer, the importance of evangelism, and the need for spiritual renewal.

The roots of the revival can be traced back to the early 20th century, when the Pentecostal movement began to take root in Ghana. The Pentecostal movement was a reaction to the traditional forms of Christianity that had been practiced in the country for centuries. The Pentecostal movement emphasized the importance of the Holy Spirit and the power of prayer, and it was this emphasis that helped to spark the revival in Ghana.

The revival was also fueled by the work of several prominent figures in the Pentecostal movement. One of the most influential figures was the Reverend William Wadé Harris, who was a prominent leader in the movement. Harris was a powerful preacher and evangelist, and he was instrumental in spreading the message of the revival throughout the country.

Another important figure in the revival was the Reverend John Mensah-Sarbah, who was a prominent leader in the Pentecostal movement. Mensah-Sarbah was a powerful preacher and evangelist, and he was instrumental in spreading the message of the revival throughout the country.

Salvation Prayers : Dear Lord Jesus, I come to you today acknowledging my need for salvation. I confess that I have sinned and fallen short of your glory. But I believe that you died for my sins and rose again. I ask that you come into my heart and be my Lord. I commit to following you and living for you every day. Thank you for your love and for the gift of eternal life. In your name I pray, Amen.
