Communication breakdown in family is a common problem in Christianity. It can lead to a lack of understanding, hurt feelings, and even broken relationships. The Bible has a lot to say about communication and how it should be used in our families.

1. The Power of Words

The Bible tells us that our words have power. Proverbs 18:21 says, “Death and life are in the power of the tongue, and those who love it will eat its fruit.” This verse reminds us that our words can bring life or death to a situation. We should be careful with our words and use them to build up and encourage our family members.

2. The Importance of Listening

Listening is an important part of communication. James 1:19 says, “Everyone should be quick to listen, slow to speak and slow to become angry.” This verse reminds us that we should take the time to listen to what our family members have to say before we respond. We should also be patient and not become angry when we don’t agree with what is being said.

3. The Need for Respect

Respect is essential for healthy communication. Ephesians 4:29 says, “Do not let any unwholesome talk come out of your mouths, but only what is helpful for building others up according to their needs, that it may benefit those who listen.” This verse reminds us that we should speak to our family members with respect and kindness. We should also be mindful of their needs and try to meet them.

4. The Value of Forgiveness

Forgiveness is an important part of communication. Matthew 6:14-15 says, “For if you forgive other people when they sin against you, your heavenly Father will also forgive you. But if you do not forgive others their sins, your Father will not forgive your sins.” This verse reminds us that we should be willing to forgive our family members when they make mistakes. We should also be willing to ask for forgiveness when we make mistakes.

5. The Necessity of Love

Love is the foundation of communication. 1 Corinthians 13:4-7 says, “Love is patient, love is kind. It does not envy, it does not boast, it is not proud. It does not dishonor others, it is not self-seeking, it is not easily angered, it keeps no record of wrongs. Love does not delight in evil but rejoices with the truth. It always protects, always trusts, always hopes, always perseveres.” This verse reminds us that we should always communicate with love. We should be patient, kind, and understanding with our family members.
