Domestic violence is a serious issue that affects many marriages, regardless of religious beliefs. Unfortunately, it is an issue that is often overlooked in Christian marriages. Domestic violence in marriage is a violation of the Christian faith and should not be tolerated. This article will discuss domestic violence in marriage in Christianity, including quotes from the Bible, and provide resources for those affected by domestic violence.

What is Domestic Violence?

Domestic violence is defined as any behavior that is used to gain power and control over another person in an intimate relationship. This can include physical, emotional, psychological, and sexual abuse. Domestic violence can occur in any type of relationship, including marriage.

Domestic Violence in Marriage in Christianity

Domestic violence in marriage is a violation of the Christian faith. The Bible states that marriage is a sacred union between two people and should be treated with respect and love. In Ephesians 5:33, it states, “Let each one of you in particular so love his own wife even as himself; and let the wife see that she respects her husband.” This verse clearly states that husbands and wives should love and respect each other. Domestic violence is a violation of this commandment and should not be tolerated.

The Bible also states that husbands and wives should be kind and gentle to each other. In Colossians 3:19, it states, “Husbands, love your wives and do not be harsh with them.” This verse clearly states that husbands should not be harsh with their wives. Domestic violence is a form of harshness and should not be tolerated.

The Bible also states that husbands and wives should forgive each other. In Matthew 6:14-15, it states, “For if you forgive others their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you, but if you do not forgive others their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses.” This verse clearly states that husbands and wives should forgive each other for their mistakes. Domestic violence is a form of unforgiveness and should not be tolerated.
