Revelation knowledge is a type of knowledge that is revealed to us by God. It is a special type of knowledge that is not available to us through our own efforts or through the study of the Bible. In Christianity, revelation knowledge is seen as a gift from God that can help us to understand and interpret the Bible in a deeper way.

The Bible is full of examples of revelation knowledge. In the Old Testament, God revealed himself to Moses in the burning bush and gave him the Ten Commandments. In the New Testament, Jesus revealed himself to the disciples on the Mount of Transfiguration and gave them the Great Commission.

In the book of Acts, the Holy Spirit revealed himself to the apostles and gave them the power to perform miracles. In the book of Revelation, John was given a vision of the future and was told to write it down for the benefit of the Church.

In each of these examples, God revealed himself to the people and gave them knowledge that was not available to them through their own efforts. This knowledge was given to them as a gift from God and was meant to help them understand and interpret the Bible in a deeper way.

Revelation knowledge is not only found in the Bible, but it is also found in the lives of believers today. God still reveals himself to us through his Word, through prayer, and through the Holy Spirit. We can receive revelation knowledge through the study of the Bible, through prayer, and through the guidance of the Holy Spirit.

Revelation knowledge can also be found in the lives of believers as they seek to follow God's will for their lives. As we seek to live in obedience to God's Word, we can receive revelation knowledge that will help us to understand and interpret the Bible in a deeper way.
