The Nigerian Revival of the late 1930s was a period of spiritual renewal and transformation that had a lasting impact on the nation. It was a time of spiritual awakening and renewal that saw the nation turn to God and seek His guidance and protection. The revival was marked by a deep sense of repentance and a commitment to living a life of holiness and obedience to God's Word.

The revival began in the city of Lagos in 1937 and quickly spread throughout the nation. It was a time of great spiritual fervor and renewal as people turned to God and sought His guidance and protection. The revival was marked by a deep sense of repentance and a commitment to living a life of holiness and obedience to God's Word.

The revival was led by a number of prominent Christian leaders, including Bishop Samuel Ajayi Crowther, Bishop James Johnson, and Bishop Joseph Babalola. These men were instrumental in leading the nation to a deeper understanding of the Gospel and a commitment to living a life of holiness and obedience to God's Word.

The revival was also marked by a renewed emphasis on evangelism and missions. The revival saw a renewed commitment to spreading the Gospel to the nations of Africa and beyond. This commitment to evangelism and missions was a major factor in the growth of the Church in Nigeria and the spread of the Gospel throughout the continent.
