The New Testament is replete with prophecies foretelling the return of Jesus Christ, promising believers the ultimate fulfillment of God's plan for redemption and the establishment of His eternal kingdom.

The Olivet Discourse (Matthew 24:1-51)

In this pivotal discourse, Jesus speaks to His disciples about the signs of His coming and the end of the age. He warns of false messiahs, wars, famines, earthquakes, persecution of believers, and the spread of the gospel to all nations before His return.

The Parable of the Ten Virgins (Matthew 25:1-13)

Jesus tells a parable about ten virgins awaiting the arrival of the bridegroom. Five were wise, prepared with enough oil for their lamps, while five were foolish, unprepared for the bridegroom's delayed arrival. This parable underscores the importance of readiness for Christ's return.

The Parable of the Talents (Matthew 25:14-30)

Another parable shared by Jesus, this narrative emphasizes the responsibility of believers to use their God-given talents wisely while awaiting His return. It highlights the expectation of faithful stewardship and accountability upon Christ's arrival.

The Book of Revelation (Revelation 19:11-21)

The final book of the New Testament vividly depicts the return of Jesus Christ in power and glory. He is portrayed as the conquering King, leading the heavenly armies to defeat evil and establish His reign of righteousness on earth.

The Promise of Jesus' Return (John 14:1-3)

Jesus Himself assures His disciples of His imminent return, promising to prepare a place for them in His Father's house and to come back to take them to be with Him.
