Christian Perspective on Online Schooling

From a Christian perspective, it is important to recognize that online schooling can be a great tool for learning, but it should not be seen as a replacement for traditional education. The Bible teaches us that knowledge is a gift from God, and that we should use it to glorify Him. As such, it is important to ensure that we are taking full advantage of the resources available to us, both online and offline.

Limited Access to Resources

One of the main drawbacks of online schooling is the limited access to resources. While online courses may provide access to a wide range of materials, such as videos, lectures, and readings, they often lack the hands-on experience that is available in a traditional classroom setting. Additionally, online courses may not provide access to the same level of support and guidance that is available in a traditional classroom setting.

For example, students may not have access to the same level of feedback from their instructors, or the same level of interaction with their peers. Additionally, online courses may not provide access to the same level of resources, such as textbooks, lab equipment, and other materials.
