In Christian theology, the concept of apostasy refers to the abandonment or renunciation of one's faith. According to biblical prophecy, there will be a significant apostasy within the church preceding the Second Coming of Christ. This event is foretold in several passages of the Bible, serving as a warning to believers to remain steadfast in their faith amidst spiritual challenges.

Signs of Apostasy

One of the signs of the impending apostasy is the rise of false prophets and teachers who lead believers astray with deceptive doctrines. The apostle Paul warns the early Christians about this in his letter to the Thessalonians, stating, "Let no one deceive you in any way. For that day will not come, unless the rebellion comes first, and the man of lawlessness is revealed, the son of destruction" (2 Thessalonians 2:3 ESV).

Another indication of the coming apostasy is the increase in lawlessness and moral decay. Jesus Himself prophesied about this, saying, “And because lawlessness will be increased, the love of many will grow cold” (Matthew 24:12 ESV).

The Falling Away from Truth

As the Second Coming of Christ draws near, there will be a widespread departure from the truth of God’s Word among professed Christians. The apostle Peter describes this apostasy, warning, “But false prophets also arose among the people, just as there will be false teachers among you, who will secretly bring in destructive heresies, even denying the Master who bought them, bringing upon themselves swift destruction” (2 Peter 2:1 ESV).

Remaining Faithful

In the face of apostasy, believers are urged to remain steadfast in their faith and to hold fast to the teachings of Scripture. Jesus encourages His followers, saying, “But the one who endures to the end will be saved” (Matthew 24:13 ESV).
