Communication is an essential part of positive parenting. It is the foundation of a healthy relationship between parents and children. As Christian parents, we must strive to communicate with our children in a way that is respectful, loving, and understanding.

The Bible tells us that “A gentle answer turns away wrath, but a harsh word stirs up anger” (Proverbs 15:1). This verse reminds us that our words have power and that we should use them wisely. We should strive to communicate with our children in a way that is gentle and understanding.

We should also strive to be consistent in our communication with our children. Consistency helps children to understand our expectations and to feel secure in our love and support. We should also be patient and understanding when communicating with our children. We should take the time to listen to their concerns and to answer their questions.

It is also important to be honest and open with our children. We should strive to be honest about our feelings and our expectations. We should also be open to hearing their thoughts and feelings. This will help to create an atmosphere of trust and understanding.

We should also strive to be positive in our communication with our children. We should focus on the positive aspects of their behavior and encourage them to do their best. We should also be encouraging and supportive when they make mistakes.

Salvation Prayers : Dear Lord Jesus, I come to you today acknowledging my need for salvation. I confess that I have sinned and fallen short of your glory. But I believe that you died for my sins and rose again. I ask that you come into my heart and be my Lord. I commit to following you and living for you every day. Thank you for your love and for the gift of eternal life. In your name I pray, Amen.

Finally, we should strive to be consistent in our communication with our children. We should strive to use the same words and phrases when communicating with them. This will help them to understand our expectations and to feel secure in our love and support.
