Homeschooling is becoming increasingly popular among Christian families, and for good reason. The Bible is full of scriptures that support homeschooling and provide guidance for Christian parents who are considering this educational option. In this blog post, we will explore some of the scriptures that support homeschooling from a Christian perspective.

Proverbs 22:6 says, “Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it.” This verse is often used to support the idea of homeschooling, as it emphasizes the importance of teaching children in a way that is consistent with the values and beliefs of the family. By homeschooling, parents can ensure that their children are receiving an education that is in line with their faith.

Deuteronomy 6:6-7 states, "And these words, which I command thee this day, shall be in thine heart: And thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children, and shalt talk of them when thou sittest in thine house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down, and when thou risest up." • This verse emphasizes the importance of teaching children about God and His Word, and homeschooling provides parents with the opportunity to do this on a daily basis.

Psalm 78:5-7 says, "For he established a testimony in Jacob, and appointed a law in Israel, which he commanded our fathers, that they should make them known to their children: That the generation to come might know them, even the children which should be born; who should arise and declare them to their children: That they might set their hope in God, and not forget the works of God, but keep his commandments." • This verse speaks to the importance of passing down the knowledge of God and His Word to future generations. Homeschooling provides parents with the opportunity to do this in a more intentional and focused way.

Proverbs 1:8-9 says, "My son, hear the instruction of thy father, and forsake not the law of thy mother: For they shall be an ornament of grace unto thy head, and chains about thy neck." • This verse speaks to the importance of parents teaching their children and the value of the wisdom and guidance that parents can provide. Homeschooling provides parents with the opportunity to be more involved in their children's education and to provide them with the instruction and guidance that they need.
